

ETHNIC STUDIES - ASSOCIATE IN ARTS

This program prepares students to transfer to universities offering degrees in Ethnic Studies and related fields. It explores the historical and contemporary experiences of black, indigenous, and other people of color (BIPOC) in the United States, focusing on critical analyses of race, racism, and white supremacy. Students engage with intersectional perspectives, examining how ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality intersect with systems of oppression. Graduates can pursue bachelor's degrees and careers focused on serving BIPOC communities in areas like education, research, community advocacy, city planning, health and human services, marketing, law, fine arts, and more.

Program Student Learning Outcomes

- Demonstrate the ability to attain the Institutional Student Learning Outcomes (ISLOs).
- Apply major theoretical concepts from the field of Ethnic Studies to analyze historical and current social issues through race and intersectional lenses.
